

A Multiplayer Game Of Cubes (AMGOC), Now AVAILABLE FOR iPhone, iPad, iPod Touch and Android Phones and Tablets.

Fun Driven Releases a Family Friendly Cubes-Based Logical Game for up to Four Players.

Bürs, Austria—July 14, 2015—Gather up with your friends or wake up the kids and enjoy a fun time with A Multiplayer Game Of Cubes (AMGOC). Fun Driven announced today that AMGOC is now available worldwide as a free download on the App Store and Google Play.

AMGOC is a cubes-based, logical game for one to four players on a single device. The goal is simple: Conquer the playground. The player who occupies the whole playground wins.

"AMGOC is like the board game classics Othello/Reversi on steroids," says Michael Holl, lead developer at Fun Driven. "The gameplay is easy to understand thanks to the in-game tutorial."

Speaking of gameplay: Every player places one cube each turn. Cubes can be placed on vacant positions or onto another cube that shares the color of the turning player, in which case the number of pips on the cube is increased by one. Each cube has a maximum number of pips it can contain. If the number of pips exceeds the limit, the cube jumps over and changes the color and number of pips of any adjacent cube. This again may cause an adjacent cube to jump over and ultimately lead to an unpredictable chain reaction, which is part of what makes the game such a challenge.

"There's something inherently fun about AMGOC—it's the hard-to-predict effects of the chain reactions which makes the game almost impossible to know who wins until the very end. It delights kids and adults alike while subconsciously training the players in logical and combined thinking."

Features:

- A simple, kid-tested and approved gameplay.
- Artificial intelligence that adjusts itself to the player's skill to keep each single player game a challenge.
- It plays well on iPhone, iPad and iPod Touch and on Android phones and tablets.
- It is available worldwide and translated into English, German and Japanese.
- AMGOC is completely free—without in-app purchases and without ads!
